Connecting Capital, Diplomacy and Energy Development in Paris

Paris is the only city in Europe where institutional capital, sovereign diplomacy and Francophone Africa's energy relationships converge in one place. It is home to organizations such as AFD, Bpifrance and the European Investment Bank, as well as leading infrastructure funds, while serving as a longstanding meeting point for African ministers, NOC leaders and the investors and lenders capable of advancing major energy projects.

IAE 2027 is the only event on the European conference calendar where institutional capital and sovereign opportunity meet at the same table, bringing together the ministerial leadership, DFI participation and diplomatic influence needed to move projects forward.

Paris also hosts key Asian diplomatic missions and sits at the center of engagement with EU Global Gateway stakeholders shaping Europe-Africa infrastructure strategy. This creates a unique environment for multilateral collaboration, supporting IAE's mission of transforming project pipelines into financed, bankable and delivered energy assets.
